*The intended marks for questions or parts of questions are given in brackets [].
You are advised to spend not more than 35 minutes in answering Question 1 and 20 minutes in answering Question 2.*

Question 1.

(Do not spend more than 35 minutes on this question)

Write a composition of a reasonable length (400 words) on any one of the topics given below: [25]

- (a) You are in charge of a committee that is to organize an art and craft exhibition at your school. Write an account of how you proceed to carry this out. You should consider, among other things, the rooms you will need, how to select and display the material to be shown, and how to receive and guide the visitors.
- (b) You have recently been to a wedding. Describe the ceremony and the accompanying celebrations.
- (c) You have travelled with a school party for a picnic. After seeing the sights before lunch, you slip into a shop for an ice-cream; when you come back, your group has disappeared. Describe your attempt to find the group, how you spent the rest of the time, how you got home, and what the others had done in the meantime.
- (d) "Teenagers should be allowed more freedom." Write down your arguments for or against this statement.
- (e) Study the picture given below. Write a story, or a description, or an account of what the picture suggests to you. Your composition may be directly about the subject of the picture or may take suggestions from it, but there must be some clear connection between the picture and the composition.

Question 2.

(Do not spend more than 20 minutes on this question.)

Select one of the following:

- (a) You have ordered some readymade garments from a shop and have found they are unsatisfactory (for example: wrong colour or bad fit). Write a letter to the shopkeeper telling him what is wrong and asking him what he can do to put things right.
- (b) Write a letter to your friend telling him about interesting things that have happened recently in your school.

Question 3

Read carefully the passage given below and then answer the questions (a) (b) and (c) that follow:

My uncle, who was addicted to letter writing, was the role model in our extended family. He lived in a village and often judged people on the basis of the how quickly his letters were replied to. Having retired from service, he posed a challenge to all relatives who knew the consequences of delayed replies. He became a treasured repository of family news in the process.

Uncle spent an hour every morning writing detailed letters. He used the window sill as a desk, sitting cross - legged on a wooden bench. He would be greeted loudly by his friends who walked past the gate to the bus stop. He kept a small aluminum box next to him. It contained the postal stationery, pens and an old dog-eared address book. This book had numerous crosses and arrow to signify changes in addresses.

While my uncle wrote letters, aunt would be squatting on the straw mat with knives, vegetables and some old newspapers, preparing for the next meal. After writing the main news, he would read it aloud to aunt. He never forgot to add details like birth stars, offering at the local temple or the inland letter to their fullest potential. After writing the main story which covered news from all family nooks, he would add information of lesser significance in very small characters and utilize every millimeter of available space. In fact, the letter had to be turned in different directions for all the news to be read.

After the day's quota of letter writing was over, uncle would walk down to the post office to post the letters. The postmaster knew my uncle very well. He would fold his hands and rise from his chair and gently extend both hands in Uncle's direction for the letters, treating them like a gift of a sacred text. Letter writing was a very important duty in those days and it was one of the traits all responsible men possessed and were regularly called upon to demonstrate.

Gone are those days! After my uncle's death, his sons who live in Mumbai could not maintain his routine. "Who writes letters nowadays?" Was the defense proffered by my jet-setting cousins to my father when he complained of not getting any news about their family. In the last two years, my father's twenty odd letters have been reciprocated by three letters and four STD calls. There were six sentences in each of the letters and the STD calls lasted a couple of minutes at the most.

Two of my cousins are business executives. They come home to sleep in the wee hours of the morning, leaving little scope for headline news, leave alone details. The third cousin is software professional. He writes only short e-mails once a month, something that starts like, "Hi, how're you? I'm OK" and ends there!

(a) Five words or phrase are given below. Give the meaning of each as used in the passage. One word answers or short phrases will be accepted. [5]

- (i) addicted, (ii) repository, (iii) squatting, (iv) potential, (v) reciprocated

(b) Answer the following questions in your own words: [10]

- 2 How did the writer's uncle get to know all family news?
- 3 How did the writer's uncle get to know all family news?
- 4 ".....the letter had to be turned in different directions for all the news to be read." Why?

5 Why were the letters treated like 'a gift of a sacred text'?

- (c) (i) Letter writing is an art which is on the decline. Illustrate with examples from the passage in not more than 60 words. [8]
 (c) (ii) Give a title to your summary in 3 (c). State a reason to justify your choice. [2]
